

maxim institute

is delighted to invite you to an address

by Dr Jane Silloway Smith

Untangling Aid

complexities, challenges, and ways forward for foreign aid

New Zealand is a wealthy country in a world with much need. Confronted by this, many are concerned about the reality of severe poverty yet confused about what will make a difference in the lives of those who suffer. Maxim Institute spent much of last year researching foreign aid policy—its potential and its pitfalls.

Join us for an evening where our lead researcher on the project, Dr Jane Silloway Smith, will share our findings. She will provide us with a glimpse of the history of aid, going on to chart how it has developed. She will also identify some of the challenges and suggest approaches that are crucial if we are to move forward in confronting the overwhelming challenge of global poverty.

Untangling Aid

complexities, challenges, and ways forward for foreign aid

DATE Tuesday 9 March, 2010
TIME 6:00pm – 7:30pm
VENUE St Cuthbert's College Auditorium
122 Market Road
Epsom, Auckland

Drinks and canapés will be served

RSVP Please email rsvp@maxim.org.nz or phone Summer Haycock on (09) 627 3261 by Thursday 4 March, 2010.
Please note RSVP is essential

Dr Jane Silloway Smith

Dr Jane Silloway Smith is a researcher at Maxim Institute, having joined the Institute after completing her PhD in history at Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois. She is the leader of the Institute's project on foreign aid, and the author of the well-received Issues Paper Money from Helicopters?

Prior to joining Maxim Institute, Jane taught in the history departments at both Auckland University and Northwestern University. Her doctoral research on communities and political change in Hanoverian Britain as well as its resulting articles and presentations have earned her a number of awards, including, most recently, the T. W. Heyck Award for Research in British History in 2009.

With thanks to tax managementnz |
TAME YOUR TAX

maxim institute

www.maxim.org.nz